

The SPS Heavy ions experiments an the onset of deconfinement

Monday, 9 November 2009 17:10 (0:30)

Abstract content

Summary

The NA49 Cern experiment has taken data of ion collisions as function of energy, mass, impact parameter and produced particle species. The systematic of the results are best understood if there is a transition to deconfined matter in the SPS energy range.

Primary author(s) : Dr. SANDOVAL, Andres Sandoval (Instituto de Fisica, UNAM)

Presenter(s) : Dr. SANDOVAL, Andres Sandoval (Instituto de Fisica, UNAM)

Session Classification : Hadron and LHC Physics I